Gordon Lewis moved to approve the 2007 Society Budget, Alan Hukill seconded the motion. Vote taken and motion passed.

There was discussion on the protocol for an approval mechanism if a budgeted line item amount will be exceeded. Is there a policy?

Do we need a policy? This was one item brought out from past Audit Committee recommendations. Other points recommended from the Audit Committee are the timely submittal of expenses by mid-December so the Annual Report completed by the Treasurer can be as accurate as possible; and when requesting payment from the club note which budget line item the cost should be accounted to.

Gordon Lewis and Bob Mosher will conduct the Audit of the club's finances for 2006.

Show: Roger Laylin - Provided copies of minutes he prepared from the Nov. 15th Show Board Meeting. An additional item that came up that was not addressed at the Show Board meeting was a request by Elaine Angstman to have her line item budget amount for the Silent Auction up front since she will be in New Mexico/Tucson/and Peru with opportunity to purchase specimens. Roger Laylin moved to provide Elaine Angstman the budgeted amount for Silent Auction up front, Gordon Lewis seconded the motion. A Rockhound’s New Year’s Resolutions

- (1) To not buy any more slabs that you just gotta have until all the ‘just gotta have’ slabs in the hobby room are utilized in a ‘true’ lapidary manner. A true lapidary manner does not include as an in-the-rough paper weight or coaster, a shim for a wobbly desk, a filler for an empty shoe box, a weapon for a would be mugger in one’s pocket or as a toy to keep a toddler occupied while shopping.
- (2) To remove all rock samples from your car. This includes clearing out the glove box and all cup holders. Make sure to check under the seats as well. Contrary to popular rockhound belief, rocks do not enjoy riding in a car, they are just as happy at home.
- (3) To make a good attempt at actually seeing the scenery while on vacation with ones spouse or friend. While a rockhound’s favorite scenery may only require looking down at the ground near one’s feet this is not truly scenery to most.
- (4) As an addendum to (3), when returning from vacation, to make a great attempt to tell co-workers/friends/family about scenery and events that do not include rocks. Try at least to name one other event/sight from the vacation. Write it on one’s hand if you must in order to remember.
- (5) Finish all projects of one type of lapidary related discipline before taking on a new lapidary discipline. While many rockhounds have many titles to their names such as faceter, silversmith, coldworker, etc. the titles don’t mean much if you don’t have any finished product i.e. polished or faceted stones. Rings. Bevels, etc...Of course it does mean that you will have a good collection of some really cool tools....oops I digress.
- (6) To try to use utmost restraint when having non-rockhound guests (gasp) over to the house to not drag them all around the house and backyard to see all your prized beauties.
